Introduction

NEFERTITI

This section concerns research involving non-EU countries.

This is the case where:

- research activities are conducted, partially or wholly, in a non-EU country
- participants or resources come from a non-EU country
- material is imported from or exported to a non-EU country.

Being outside the reach of European laws and standards, such research can raise specific ethical issues (particularly in developing countries), such as:

- exploitation of research participants
- exploitation of local resources
- risks to researchers & staff
- research that is prohibited in the EU.

Horizon 2020 funding cannot be granted for activities carried out outside the EU if they are prohibited in all Member States.

The applicant must confirm that the ethical standards and guidelines of Horizon2020 will be rigorously applied, regardless of the country in which the research is carried out.
